

Keynote Speaker
Honorable Nat Robertson
Mayor of Fayetteville, North Carolina

Nat Robertson was elected mayor of Fayetteville in November 2013 and re-elected in November 2015. He grew up in Fayetteville, graduated from E.E. Smith High School, attended classes at Fayetteville State University and graduated from Elon University with a Bachelor of Arts in public administration. He was a partner with his father in Robertson Jewelers and owned the General Nutrition Center stores on Raeford Road and Bragg Boulevard. Robertson now works as a physician representative for a clinical laboratory.

Mayor Robertson was the youngest council member ever elected to the Fayetteville City Council at the age of 26. He served four terms on the Council and as mayor, focuses on policy and not politics and on doing the right things for the right reasons! This is most evident in the Council's actions to re-establish the City/County Liaison Committee that will bring both boards together to openly discuss mutual policy interests for the betterment of the community. His support of the Police Department and the double-digit reduction in Fayetteville's crime rate, along with his actions taken to strengthen and improve the community's overall quality of life, are unmistakable. Mayor Robertson was also the first mayor of Fayetteville to be named to the Governor's Crime Commission.

Mayor Robertson's priorities include reducing crime, making the City's residents feel safer; making the City more customer friendly; bringing common sense back to City government; and working with local businesses to promote and expand economic development. He believes business growth will promote a healthier and safer environment for ALL our residents.

Mayor Robertson and his wife Kim have two adult children, Cameron and Carlin. They are members of Highland Presbyterian Church and both Nat and Kim are active in many civic organizations. Kim has been an administrator with the Cumberland County Schools since 2004.
